Section 2: Three Persona Analysis

Consumer Advocate N/A Confidence: N/A Reasoning: Integrity Pools presents a classic case of a service business with a strong public-facing reputation but significant operational red flags. The evidence reveals a stark dichotomy: high aggregate ratings (BBB A+, Google 4.8, Angi 4.5) versus deeply concerning patterns in detailed	Fair Arbiter N/A Confidence: N/A Reasoning: Integrity Pools presents a mixed but largely positive profile with strong institutional trust signals and a long operational history, tempered by legitimate concerns about service consistency. The charitable interpretation of the evidence is as follows: The company is a legitimate, long-standing	Synthesizer N/A Reasoning: No dialectic audit data available. Stronger Case: N/A customer feedback and business practices. The most critical evidence is the detailed, credible 1-star reviews on Google Maps, which describe a pattern of service degradation, unresponsiveness, and questionable repair practices. One review explicitly details a technician offering a 'free dirt vacuum' for a 5-star review, a clear violation of ethical standards and Google's policies, indicating a culture that prioritizes review manipulation over service quality. Another review describes a 2-month ordeal where the company recommended a $3,000+ pump replacement that a second opinion diagnosed as a $60 board issue, suggesting a pattern of unnecessary upsells. The REVIEW_ANALYSIS confirms these complaints are authentic and identifies patterns of 'declining service quality,' 'poor communication,' and 'upselling/unnecessary repairs.' The company's BBB A+ rating and accreditation are positive signals, but the absence of complaint data in our scrape is a gap; the business (16 years, founded 2009) with strong formal credentials: an A+ BBB rating, BBB accreditation since 2018, and an active Texas franchise tax account. The absence of liens, court records, or EPA/OSHA violations across four major counties is a significant positive. The review data, while showing a discrepancy between platforms (Google 4.8 vs. Yelp 3.2), is consistent with industry patterns where Yelp attracts more critical reviews. The 134 reviews on Angi (4.5) and 31 on Houzz (4.9) indicate substantial, generally satisfied customer volume. The negative reviews, while credible and detailed, describe failures in routine maintenance and communication—common challenges for service businesses scaling up—rather than fraud, abandonment, or major construction defects. The positive reviews frequently name specific technicians (Josh, Georgia, Sharleen) and praise their detailed work, suggesting the company employs competent individuals. The BBB shows no

Google News search result snippet shows a BBB complaint page exists, indicating they have received complaints. The business is legally established (TX Franchise data confirms 'INTEGRITY POOLS INC') and has been operating for ~16 years (BBB founding date 2009), which argues against it being a fly-by-night operation. However, the core service failures described by long-term customers who 'gave them many chances' are severe. For a homeowner, the risk is not that the company is a total fraud, but that they may receive inconsistent, low-quality maintenance service, face pressure for unnecessary repairs, and struggle to get issues resolved. The positive reviews are often technician-specific (Josh, Georgia, Sharleen), suggesting service quality is highly dependent on individual employees, not company-wide standards.

Key Concerns:

Credible evidence of review manipulation: A technician offered a material incentive (free service) for a 5-star complaints, indicating either effective resolution or a low complaint rate relative to volume. The company's longevity (16 years) suggests it has navigated past service issues and maintained enough customer satisfaction to survive. The most charitable view is that Integrity Pools is a generally reliable contractor that may struggle with consistency in its weekly maintenance division but has a solid foundation and a history of satisfactory project work.

Positive Factors:

N/A

review., Pattern of serious service failures: Multiple detailed reviews describe technicians skipping chemical checks, failing to clean properly, and poor communication leading to algae outbreaks., Evidence of potentially unnecessary repairs: A customer reported being told they needed $3,000 pumps when the issue was a $60 part, indicating a possible pattern of overselling., Inconsistent service quality: Reviews indicate heavy reliance on individual technicians, with quality declining over time for long-term customers., Significant rating discrepancy: A large gap exists between Google (4.8) and Yelp (3.2), which the review analysis notes is typical but also highlights Yelp's more critical reviewer base., Complaint history: BBB complaint page exists (per Google News result), though details are not in our current data.

Section 3: Red Flags

A technician offered a material incentive (free dirt vacuum) for a 5-star review, indicating a culture of review manipulation and an ethical breach.

A detailed customer report suggests a pattern of unnecessary upsells: being told a $3,000+ pump replacement was needed when a second opinion identified a $60 board issue.

Multiple credible reviews describe a pattern of declining service quality over time, with technicians skipping basic tasks like chemical checks, leading to algae outbreaks.

I had high hopes, however, when you can't control algae, it makes me wonder what else is being skipped over.\n\nMy video cameras showed employees emptying baskets and then leaving. No water chemical check. I complained and they changed the service tech. Got better, and then the pool water smelled and I called again. They changed the pool tech again and the smell went away. One time, I watched a pool tech check the Polaris pool cleaner and the bag had a huge hole in it. Not one pool tech ever wrote in their notes that the bag needed to be replaced. I can't tell you how many pool techs I've been through.\n\nNot much has changed and I've given them so many chances.\n\nThe last tech told me I could get a free dirt vacuum if I leave a five star review. (Which I thought was supposed to be done once a month):\n\n"Hi this is Thomas from integrity pools if you leave a 5 star review with my name in it by the time I get to your pool you get a free dirt vacuum if you're interested no cost to you"\n\nAnd yes, I was out of town and the gate was locked last week so the tech couldn't get to the pool. However, if the pool chemicals were being checked and balanced on a regular basis, there wouldn't be this amount of algae.\n\nSo I ask you...Is this worthy of a five star review? No. It's not.\n\nLooking for a weekly pool service you can trust? Look elsewhere.", After a very high wind storm a couple days ago, our pool was covered with leaves and debris. Georgia, our regular service tech, went above and beyond cleaning our pool today. This was her regular weekly service call that required her to work much harder and more diligent than normal resulting in my pool never looking so good! So, my thanks, praise and congratulations to Georgia for a job extremely well done!\n\nI've been using Integrity Pool service for about 3 months and have been more than satisfied with their responsiveness, professionalism and most of all their competence.", Example after 3 visits to correct salt system the finally said you need to replace your pumps, in excess of 3 grand. Got a second opinion and it was a $60 board. This exercise took almost 2 months. After 5 years of having a card on file for charges they changed their software system and all of the sudden the card didn't work. Only vendor the card doesn't work for. Instead of trying to figure out what happened, obviously the card worked for 5 years, they just blamed it on me and said you just hand to come in and run your card and refused to come out and just let the pool go, instead of being practice and finding a solution. Turns out, best thing that ever happened. I found a new service that is awesome and the office personnel are very friendly. I do want to add though that the pool cleaning that Sharleen provided was very good and was always done well. It's the only reason I stuck around for as long as I did. I will terrible experiences with two other well reviewed companies, I tried them. I'm certainly happy that I have them servicing my pool. Jim Dillingham has been servicing our pool weekly for at least 1-1/2 years and has been excellent - personable and professional. My pool is always clean and balanced and I receive communications from him every time he stops by. It's amazing that I have the same great guy every week and can build that relationship with him. Never any surprises - just good work every time.\n\nBesides the cleaning, I've used Integrity for a repair and filter cleaning in the past. In general, I'm pleased with their other services. They've got some great guys on the service side as well.\n\nHowever, the weekly service provided is significantly better than any Dallas. The original post I had was made as a result of the pool tech repeatedly asking me to write a positive review.\n\nHowever, the pool company rarely had a pool cleaner that had any technical skills to operate the pool. They only knew how to clean the pool. That said, the NEVER swept the pool and just cleaned the skimmers and tested the chemicals, event though they were supposed to be sweeping the pool every time. I have camera footage of the pool cleaner taking two sweeps and then staying a total of 5 minutes and leaving. Ridiculous.\n\nThey never showed up last week. I callled them on Saturday to find out why they no showed.

No response. I called again on Monday, no response. Meanwhile the pool is full of leaves and the pumps were burning up from lack of water. Still no response.\n\nThey almost blew the sale of my house when the buyer came in on closing day to find the pool a total mess.\n\nI would never recommend this company for anything. Ever. If they ever return my call they will hear me telling them they are fired.\n\nI had to call another pool company out to do what I paid them to do in order not to get held up on the closing of the sale of my house.

  "text": "Integrity pools will make lots of promises about what they can do and how well they will do it; you should add two to three months to whatever you're told. I've had 4 different customer service representatives over a three month period; each with different stories about why techs didn't show and how sorry they are. Integrity pools has more work than they do hands and no one person or department is willing to take responsibility for delays or lack of respect for time. If you display dissatisfaction with their obvious shortcomings, they will respond with more promises which they will not be able to keep or have any intentions of keeping. Your sales person will disappear after the sale and leave behind an assortment of non-english speaking crews. Each crew will work about 1/2 day and Integrity pools will text you to collect thousands of dollars after a crew leaves. You can ask questions, but don't expect coherent answers.
Each promise is followed by another. The english speaking reps will agree with you about the problems and constant delays, but they only make lists with your concerns; again, with no intentions of effecting change. They pass the buck. The sales person promised 8 - 14 days of plaster care, a filter cleaning, a vacuum and balanced water chemistry. Just promises. We were supposed to be swimming by 9/6/2021, Labor day. We have received 4 days of plaster care. There were initial plumbing leaks and the new 3K$ heater, installed early July, is still not working.
At the current rate, our project that started in June will not be completed until late September or early October. We expect more promises on 9/7/2021, but you can only believe Integrity pools when they are finished. We have over 22K$ in this project with Integrity pools and the journey has been difficult. I spoke to the owner of the company and he made me feel insignificant. I felt like I was interrupting his day. I can't tell you about the depths of my disappointment. If you choose Integrity pools, ask your sales person a lot of questions and then ask more, then ask again - get a clear scope of work and then do your best to hold Integrity pools to it. Frankly, the only part of their contract that will be held up, without constraints, is when Integrity pools is ready to collect money, by text. You have to stay on top of Integrity pools to make sure your project is completed in a reasonable time because where they are lacking in consistency, they will surely make up with excuses. We hope you have better luck.\n\n3 years later:\n\nPool and equipment are functioning properly and without issue. I wish that we could have worked things out better and in a more professional manner, on my part. Integrity Pools deserved to have been treated with much more dignity and respect than I gave them. I am grateful for their service, support, commitment and dedication to completing my project.\n\nI would that Integrity Pools have continued prosperity, health and success in all their endeavors.\n\n- HP",

The whole process was as painless as possible from David who led the sales process and Alan who checked on progress and quality and Jill who served as my customer rep.\n\nDavid was great on the sales side as he patiently assisted through the many options available when starting a project of this side. His eye for detail and style choices was of huge benefit when making hard decisions like what stone type, color, tile color, plaster type etc.\n\nIf anyone wants to experience exceptional customer service, they most certainly will find it with Jill as their customer service rep. Jill was always informative with scheduling and alerting me to what the next steps were along with the timing of various crews arriving onsite; she was absolutely fabulous! Any company would benefit immensely with someone like Jill.\n\nThroughout the project it was also having Alan drop by to check on how things were progressing. Alan was great to talk with when I had questions and very insightful when a couple of decisions needed to be made in regard to slight changes during the process.\n\nOverall, I am extremely happy having chosen Integrity Pools and will continue to use them whenever a new project arises or whenever repairs may be needed.\n\n-- Follow up. As the project was wrapping up during the plaster care portion it was noted that there was an issue with the pressure in the pump. Steve who was doing a great job during plaster care reported the issue. Again, Jill was amazing in coordinating with the service department to determine the issue. From start to finish, they demonstrated professionalism, expertise, and a genuine commitment to excellence.\n\n1. Smooth Installation Process: Their attention to detail was impressive. Winter rains made it a messy process at times, but they kept the project on schedule despite minor weather delays.\n\n2. Expert Guidance: As a seasoned homeowner, we had specific requirements for the pool design. We wanted a "cocktail" pool with classic clean lines, lots of bench seating and a natural-color finish. Integrity Pools patiently listened to my ideas and provided valuable insights. Their expertise helped me make informed decisions, resulting in a pool that exceeded my expectations.\n\n3. Quality Craftsmanship: The craftsmanship is outstanding. The pool's finish, tile work, and coping are flawless.\n\n4. Professional Team: Throughout the process, the team maintained clear communication. They answered all my questions promptly and courteously. It was nothing short of a bait and switch. They had my pool empty and started removing plaster when they told me that it was going to increase in cost by nearly 50%. The \"additional work\" was only quoted to take 1 extra day, so I could not understand the massive increase. Because I did not immediately agree, they put me on the bottom of the list and seemed to only come back after I had to aggressively follow up. Now my pool is having major shifting issues due to sitting empty for so long. They of course will not stand behind any of the work they did. They also got plaster in all of the new grout and a couple patches they did are terrible. Also, if you use this company which I strongly discourage, get absolutely every conversation either recorded or in writing. Every employee that came out made promises that were not fulfilled and all anyone at the office would say is \"it isn't in your contract.\" I have never heard that phrase so often when dealing with someone we hired, and it was not due to any extra request from us. It was literally just asking them to complete what their employees suggested we do (that they would include as they were all very small things), and all of the sudden it was not included. In an effort to try and talk to an owner to get someone who actually cared about their reputation we were told that the owner has not been involved in his company for over a year and it was not an option to even talk with them. How is that possible in a small business?\n\nMost of their positive reviews are actually received before the work is done as they had me write a review up front.   "text": "My mother hired Integrity last year. Huge mistake! The quality of their care went down over time to the point where her pool was green and they left it green for MONTHS. They took the monthly payment and completely neglected the pool. At one point the drain lines became impacted with leaves due to the neglect and they charged her hundreds of dollars to fix it. I fully believe they were taking advantage of her. After I called and complained, they sent a supervisor out who asked for more money. They had been caring for her pool for nearly a year at this point, so if it was green, who's fault is that?\n\nWe hired another pool service on Monday. Today is Wednesday. The pool is blue. There is no reason Integrity should have kept asking my mother for money while not doing anything to improve the pools condition. Shame on you, Integrity Pools!",

The only communication we received was for payment when they wanted it for a job that had not even been completed. Multiple phone calls of "no one came to do the work we were so sorry." When they subcontract they don't supervise and the work needs to be done multiple times. A two month project lasted 7 months and is still not complete, but has been canceled due to poor workmanship, pricing changes, lack of materials, horrid communication, etc. They don't know the material, Mike the sales man gave us stone that is slippery when the main request we had was make it kid friendly. We had to select multiple tiles due to shortage and no communication. We understand about the freeze delays and covid but the lack of respect and communication when we repeatedly asked to be contacted weather the information was good or bad, but that was apparently too much to ask. We reported them to Angies list where we received the information and will be contacting the BBB. Please do not use this company if I could give negative stars I would. The photos attached show the light poorly installed and plastered this needed to be done twice, cracks and staining in the plaster, and our small pool for the summer since our was unavailable. one. It does take integrity to admit when you are wrong and that you want to make it right so it is appreciated will update again. The company has hired more help and the communication has improved 100%. Update: 12/8/21 The things they were going to make better ended up being worse. Repeated request of our presence and supervisor present when work was done was ignored and now they want to charge us for their mistake. New pics attached. "text": "REPLY TO OWNERS REVIEW COMMENTS\n\nEvery pool contractor is stretched to the limit and we are no exception.\n\nSO YOU ARE TAKING ON MORE JOBS THAN YOU CAN HANDLE, JUST WHAT A CUSTOMER WANTS TO HEAR.\n\nMy comments to you via our phone call, and our supervisors' comments in person were: \"Please allow us to correct the problem\". We had people on site ready to correct the spots and you drove them away, refusing us permission to correct the issue. This is confusing to us given your dissatisfaction.\n\nNOT CORRECT THEM, ATTEMPT TO CORRECT, AFTER NOT BEING DONE RIGHT THE FIRST TIME. YOUR SUPERVISOR COULD NOT GUARANTEE THEY WOULD BE CORRECTED.\n\nMy commitment to our customers is that I will do everything in my power to get the job done right first time, and if there are any problems that we will take care of them. When you will let us do that we'll be ready. Until then I wish you the very best and am sorry that we are in this situation.\n\nMatthew Dunshea\n\nAND IF THIS JOB WAS SO IMPORTANT, I WOULD HAVE THOUGHT THE OWNER WOULD HAVE SHOWED UP TO INSPECT. BUT CLEARLY OUT OF TOUCH.\n\nTo attempt to be fair in my review, the review following this one is still listed below.\n\nNOV-DEC-JAN Review of a stamped concrete deck remodel.\n\nOur existing flagstone deck was in need of replacement. Since we used Integrity on a prior job (see below), we gave them a call. Work DID NOT start on time. In fact the dates, THEY put in the contract, came and went with not contact. After we reached out, work started 10 days later.\n\nThey piled the demolished decking and base materials in our driveway, with no warning. Huge mess, they did clean up later, but 1) should have warned us and 2) Should not use the driveway as staging, unless they ask. They also damaged the decking that was remodeled in the June project, which they tried to repair. They should not have damaged it in the first place. We were not paying to have existing work damaged.\n\nThe colors selected at the start of the job were not representative of the colors we ended up with. And there are noticeable spots (they refer to as cheetah spots) throughout the decking, which we had to point out.\n\nWhen installing the mastic, the contractor failed to finish a 20 foot section because, in our opinion, they were too lazy to move a storage container. They did come back and finish it, a week later.\n\nWhen discussing all of the above, the owner Mr. Dunshea was apologetic, but was quick to point out that they were growing very rapidly. NOT OUR PROBLEM, and not very professional. If you cannot handle the load or have subcontractors not to customers standards, then maybe you should change something.\n\nOn final inspection today, and after pressing for their opinion, the representative stated they were happy with the work and considered it complete. That seems to be their best answer. \n\n\"It looks good to us\". So we decided to change something in the equation, told them to stop trying to correct the work and not come back.\n\nWILL NEVER USE AGAIN, even after the glowing review below.\n\nWill post pictures later.\n\nREVIEW FROM JUNE 2020 - UNEDITED\n\nMike was our first contact with Integrity Pools. He was not a pushy salesman, gave plenty of options, and separated each item so we could budget accordingly. All of the staff that worked on our pool were professional, knowledgeable and very friendly. Sherri at the office was quick to respond when questions were asked. The owner showed up on plaster day, and did not identify himself, showing great humility, in our opinion. Luke, Anthony, Eddie and Matt (service techs) were are very friendly and did a great job of explaining their treatments. We could not be more proud of our INTEGRITY remodeled pool. They certainly lived up to their name!",

David was honest in his assessment and they could start the project in a timely fashion. Unfortunately, the condition of the pool was far more extensive than either of us anticipated, but Integrity Pool continued to get the job done with some really hard working staff and sub-contractors. Although the cost of the renovation exceeded the original estimate, we were kept in the loop at each needed repairs and Integrity Pool tried to keep the cost down as much as was feasible. I did settle on Integrity Pools and am very happy I did. Matthew worked with me on the schedule and made it that the work was done in a week time frame. Our pool looks great and updated. Integrity did a great job of performing all the work, stayed with our job during weeks of drenching rain, and completed all the work promised. At the end when they restarted all our equipment, noticed a couple of small problems and fixed everything right away. This was everything we were looking for on our pool project and then some!   "text": "Recap: Integrity Pools is amazing!!! Use these guys, you'll be glad you did!\nOur pool was needing a replaster – and we started seeing some erosion around the spa from years of poor pressure and weather. I interviewed 7 different companies to help with this project. It seems that the pool industry is run amuck with “fly by night” businesses that are not dependable and can do a sub-standard job.\nIntegrity Pools in Richardson was exceptional. David, the new projects salesman we worked with, handled us with care through entire process. Communication was amazing – from very simple questions to the more complex explanations of the process their team would do.\nThe biggest negative I have is their contract is overwhelming. It goes to show how difficult this business can be with so many factors out of the hands of the contractor and the homeowner (pools / water / different levels of care from one owner to the next / different levels of competency of the regular maintenance, etc, etc, etc). When signing the contract, I let the team know that their contract was not the greatest I'd read and that I hope it was all meaningless because of the job they would do would be perfect.\nI'm happy to say it is a beautiful finish out and a great company! We couldn't be happier with our choice. With 7 different bids, Integrity was not the cheapest option – but they were not the most expensive either – but their process, communication and workmanship is the best I've worked with.",

In fact, I needed to vacuum the pool myself since the pool was so filthy that the bottom was an entirely different color. This was on a Thursday after they had supposedly vacuumed on the Tuesday prior. All of this also came in the wake of me calling to actively state that I had not seen vacuuming being done, which prompted Integrity to change my servicer, which made little to no difference. I can understand the pool being a little bit dirty after balancing chemicals or shocking and having things fall out of suspension, but the bottom of the pool was green, like it had not been vacuumed in weeks. A simple pass with my cheap $100 electric one from Lowe's made it look better in 30 mins than it ever did after Integrity came to supposedly service my pool. On top of that, multiple tiles had been knocked loose or found in the pool and I had heard nothing from Integrity about suggested repairs or found issues. Overall, extremely disappointed with the level of, or lack of, care on the part of Integrity Pools and their techs. What I had contracted out to provide some level of convenience turned out to be an entire waste of money.",

They got my pool equipment overhauled and salt system operating again, all with prompt service and very reasonable costs, and the weekly service is extraordinary. I had been using my last company for about 10 years despite having felt ripped off every time an issue would arise, but now I could not be happier that I finally made a switch. The pool has never looked better or operated more effectively! They are here every week at the same time slot on Wednesdays, and even leave a service card so that you know they were here.
